Vision

The Bible numbers among the greatest writings of humanity. When its readers discover ever anew the multiple facets of their own lives in the stories of the biblical books, Scripture unfolds its transforming potential, and its message of life and of hope becomes tangible.

The Catholic Biblical Federation was established by Pope Paul VI in 1969 to foster and promote an awareness of the unique significance of Sacred Scripture at all levels of ecclesial life. With its roots tracing back to the Second Vatican Council it sees itself as the advocate of the Bible in the Catholic Church.

The Catholic Biblical Federation represents the world-wide multiplicity of the Catholic faith. Its more than 340 member institutions in 126 countries of the world are committed to insuring that people can experience the life-giving message of the Bible in their daily lives.

Rooted in the Catholic Church and in close cooperation with the Pope and bishops, the Catholic Biblical Federation avows itself to ecumenical and interconfessional dialogue. It promotes tolerance and respect for other cultures and religions and is actively engaged on behalf of peace and justice.

Through its commitment to the Gospel, the Catholic Biblical Federation plays an active role in building a world in which the values of love of God and neighbor, of justice and responsibility are the core of political, social and personal activity.

Tasks and goals

The Catholic Biblical Federation (CBF) is a worldwide fellowship of international, national and local institutions engaged in the field of biblical pastoral ministry, biblical studies and Bible translation.

Besides translation of the Bible into local languages, the primary task of the Catholic Biblical Federation resides in the effort to translate the biblical message into the personal and communal contexts of human beings' lives. It thereby promotes a way of reading Sacred Scripture which uncovers the life-giving message of God's Word, thus countering the danger of a fundamentalistic misinterpretation.

With its commitment to the Gospel, the Catholic Biblical Federation is aware that today, at the beginning of the third millennium, Christian values need to be strengthened and rediscovered as a foundation for communal living. The Christian value system is the premise for universal human rights and for Christians the basis of a responsible intercultural and interreligious dialogue.

Structures

The Catholic Biblical Federation is an "international public organization" according to the Code of Canon Law (can. 312 § 1 n. 1 CIC / can. 575 § 1 n. 3 CCEO). In Germany, it takes the legal form of a registered, non-profit organization (eingetragener Verein "Katholische Bibelföderation e. V.") whose activities pursue socially beneficial and ecclesiastical goals.

Members

The Federation has two categories of members: full members (at present 102) are Bishops' Conferences or those Catholic organizations which function as the Bishops' Conference's action arm for biblical pastoral ministry in a given country and that have sought membership. Associated members (at present 247) can be any other Catholic organization engaged in the fields of biblical pastoral ministry, biblical studies or Bible translation and that has been accepted as a member by the CBF Executive Committee.

Three-fourths of the member institutions are located in so-called "developing countries".

Plenary Assembly

The governing body of the Federation is the Plenary Assembly. It is a delegates' conference of full members and associate members held regularly every six years. The Plenary Assembly sets the guidelines for the work of the Federation for the following six years. It also elects the members of the Executive Committee. The Plenary Assembly offers CBF members the opportunity to meet on a worldwide scale. It is the place for exchange and reflection beyond regional and continental borders.

The last two Plenary Assemblies were held in 2011 and 2015 in Nemi (Italy); the next will be held in Asia, in 2021.

Executive Committee

The Executive Committee is elected by the Plenary Assembly. It is the highest organ in the period between Plenary Assemblies and it is obligated to implement their decisions and to nominate office-holders. Each region is served by at least one representative in the Executive Committee.

President

The President is the presiding officer of the Federation. He is a prelate, elected by the Executive Committee, his name being presented to the Holy See for confirmation. His term of office is six years renewable.

CBF President (since 2015) is Cardinal Luis Antonio Tagle, Archbishop of Manila (Philippines).

General Secretary

The General Secretary is elected by the Executive Committee and is responsible for the implementation and realization of the goals and tasks of the Federation. With the support of an international team in the General Secretariat and in collaboration with the coordinators of the individual regions he promotes and coordinates the work of the Federation.

CBF General Secretary (since 2014) is Fr. Jan J. Stefanów SVD.

Administrative Board

The Administrative Board of the Catholic Biblical Federation is, in accordance with German law, the legal entity of the Federation as a registered organization in Germany, and as such bears the responsibility for all legal and financial matters of the Federation in accordance with the current law of the Federal Republic of Germany.

Regions

Based on the principle of subsidiarity the Catholic Biblical Federation is divided into seven regions: Africa, Latin America, North America, Asia, Oceania, Europe and Middle East. Some of these regions are further subdivided into subregions.

The regional and subregional coordinators have the task of promoting biblical pastoral ministry in their own regions and of coordinating it with the support of the General Secretariat. All the coordinators work on a voluntary basis.
